Graham-Paige Wins Hardest European Test

America has won Europe's most important touring competition, the eighth annual Monte Carlo Rally. A four-speed Graham-Paige made the best run of 64 entries in this international contest, receiving the $10,000 prize award and a special trophy for traversing the greatest distance.

The winning car was driven by Dr. J. J. Sprenger van Eijck, who left Stockholm, Sweden, and arrived at Monte Carlo, 1840 miles distant, on the third day, just 74 hours, 17 minutes after his start.

Driving conditions this year were described as frightful. Unexpectedly severe weather, which converted snow drifts into huge ice packs and an extensive fog that blanketed England, France and Belgium, delayed the competitors. So difficult was this year's test that only 24 of the 64 starters succeeded in reaching Monte Carlo within the time limit.

The Monte Carlo Rally is recognized as one of the world's severest automobile competitions.

Contestants start from the capitals of their respective countries, timing themselves to arrive at Monte Carlo on the Mediterranean at approximately the same hour. They must maintain an average for the entire distance as close to 25 miles an hour as possible.

Sacramento river run off this year will approach the low record year of 1924 unless unlooked for rains aid the flow to check salinity and swell irrigation reserves. Harold Conklin, chief of the State division of water rights, declared.

San Francisco will be the convention city for the purchase and stores division of the American Railway Association next June, the San Francisco Convention and Tourist Bureau announced. The purchasing agents of all the principal railroad systems and representatives of the railroad supply manufacturers, who compose the organization, control the expenditure of more than $2,000,000,000 a year.

Official advice from Washington received by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce announced the selection of Oakland as a co-operative office of the United States Department of Commerce, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. W. K. Semper, manager of the department of foreign and domestic commerce for the local chamber will be manager of the Government bureau, it was announced.

Bullfrog raising is developing into quite a business in Paradise, Paradise, as it happens, is a small town near Oroville and John Carrigan, resident there, is importing several hundred bullfrogs from New Orleans to form the nucleus for a frog farm. It takes eight years to raise a frog to the point where its legs are suitable for market, Carrigan said. The legs are worth $5 a dozen on the San Francisco market.

Ernesto Luna, 33, of Firebaugh, was always ready to do a fellow townsman a favor—that is until the following happened to him: It seems a "man from Phoenix, Ariz." wanted him to take $3500 to "Manuel Elias" at Firebaugh. It had been left him by an "aunt." Ernesto agreed, even to the extent of putting up $95 as guarantee of delivery. Police are hunting the man from Phoenix. There is no "Manuel Elias." The bundle of money proved a wet newspaper.

Saturday, May 18, has been decided upon as the date for the Fourth Annual Santa Clara County Fiesta de las Rosas to be held in the city of San Jose. As in the past this "festival of flowers" is to be featured by a grand floral parade of more than eighty floats of natural flowers and twenty-five of California's finest musical units. Viewed by 500,000 people last May it is expected that this spectacle of millions of flowers will attract an even larger throng to the State's first capital city. In addition to the floral pageant will be the great rose show conducted by the numerous flower lover clubs of the county and a festival of music to be participated in by more than 1000 high school students.

Annexing grand sweepstakes prizes in both the growers and packers divisions and winning a flock of firsts, seconds and thirds in the minor competitive departments, Riverside county citrus fruit swept the field at the National Orange show at San Bernardino. The National Orange Co. of Riverside captured the prize in Class 1 of Division A sweepstakes to which a prize of $200 is attached. The American Fruit Growers of Lindsay was second and the Mutual Orange Distributors of Corona third. The Circle City company took a prize of $100. The display judged was 40 boxes of Washington navel, Geo. C. Rolding of Lindsay, San Joaquin Valley, was crowned champion orange grower of the world and Ernest Mueller of Etiwanda took the title in the lemon culture.

The Division of Motor Vehicles accounted for its 1928 stewardship of the registration fees of California motorists by turning back to the State Highway Commission and the various counties a total of $7,820,621.13 collected in motor vehicle licenses to be used for highway repair and maintenance purposes. One half of this huge amount, or $3,910,310.56 will go directly to the highway commission. The other half will be apportioned to the counties after deductions totaling $751,144.65 are made for the salaries of traffic officers. This deduction will not be necessary next year if the legislature to create a state-wide traffic patrol is given approval as the officers will then be paid directly from operating funds instead of from county apportionments. The apportionment, largest in the history of the state, is a gain of $359,404.14 over 1927 and represents approximately 83 per cent of the total registration receipts. The division therefore used only about 11 per cent of the registration receipts for its operating expense although the law permits the use of 25 per cent. The apportionment of the counties is based on a total fee-paid registration for the year of 1,345,112 vehicles. The share each county receives is based on the number of vehicles it registered.

Vindication of the honor system in State hospitals, whereby inmates may spend the Christmas season with their loved ones, was seen in a report published recently by Leroy R. Bruce of the State Department of Institutions. Of the 851 feeble-minded and insane persons released from State hospitals and State homes during November, December, January and February, not one has failed to return on time, Bruce reported. In view of the fact that many of the inmates come from homes financially able to care for them, the result was considered particularly significant.

After 15 years of constant appeals from many civic and social organizations in Santa Clara county, the board of county supervisors have finally decided to build a new juvenile detention home in San Jose. "Somewhere near the court house." This was tentatively agreed upon at a closed meeting of the detention home committee of the board of supervisors. While plans for the new building have not been completed, it will be modern in every detail and in addition to providing separate units for boys and girls will also house the offices of the juvenile probation officer.

Material reduction of grade crossings hazards by means of new type of warning signals perfected by maintenance engineers was announced by B. B. Meek, director of public works. Illuminated Neon signs, 14 feet above grade, readable at 1,500 feet and visible for three miles, will mark all State highway grade crossings where train movement is heavy, Meek announced. Community growth in Northern California is indicated through data released by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company covering gain in consumers and increase in use of the company's commodities. At the close of the year, 1928, the company was serving 1,004,240 consumers, an increase of 36,623 over the previous year.

While several squads of policemen and detectives stood guard, $300,000, 000 in currency, jewelry and bonds were transferred from the safe deposit boxes of the Crocker National Bank at San Francisco to its new location, a short distance away. It is believed to have been one of the largest bank transfers in the West.

While his wife looked on, horrified and helpless, Carbon Garrett, 34, was stabbed to death in his home in Angel Valley, a suburb of Weed. Donald Stover, 25, was arrested at Yreka and charged with murder. Officers had been searching for Stover, following his disappearance from the Garrett home after the stabbing. He fled in his automobile.

Fred L. Donahue, 53, deputy district attorney of Alameda County for twenty years, was found dead in bed at his Oakland home, 171 Santa Clara avenue recently. He had been suffering from a heart ailment for several years. Donahue is survived by his widow, Mrs. Regina Donahue, and two daughters, Providence and Florence Donahue. He was a native of Alameda County.

Immediate construction of a State operated shipside cold storage terminal in San Francisco was requested in a petition to Governor C. C. Young by 32 apple growers of the Watsonville Apple Growers' Association declaring the refrigerator terminal "an unwarranted expenditure" was attacked by the 32 independent growers, who claim to supply practically all of the apples now exported from San Francisco, and say association members market their produce domestically. The independent growers, according to A. L. Cottrell of Aptos and Watsonville, pack 600,000 boxes of apples a year.

"The San Joaquin Valley and especially Tulare county must be included in the immediate water plans before the state legislature" was the burden of a meeting of citizens at Tulare, working under the auspices of the California State Irrigation Association. Quotas for the various Tulare county sections were named to provide necessary funds for publicity work, etc. Terra Bella was the first to subscribe its quota of $300. Tulare subscribed $2000. Other quotas, now being raised, include Tipton $250, Lindsay $1000, Delano $500, Pixley $250, Strathmore $200, Earlimart $100, Exeter $500, Visalia $1000, Porterville $1000 and Poplar $100.

Public hearing on bills designed to repeal capital punishment, now on file in both the Senate and Assembly, are scheduled for dates early in March according to Senator West of Alameda, sponsor of the principal measure. Repeal of the law prescribing death by hanging for murder in the first degree, when there is no recommendation for life imprisonment, is an issue which arises each biennium. Two years ago it failed to get sufficient support to be recommended out of the Senate Judiciary Committee. Senator West, an attorney, declares, however, there is more hope for his proposition this year, and purports to have the support of the Los Angeles Bar Association.

More than 25,000 seasonal laborers will be required to harvest the 755,000 acres of seasonal crops that will be produced in the six southern counties of the San Joaquin Valley this year, F. J. Polomares, manager of the San Joaquin Valley Agricultural Labor Bureau, told a luncheon meeting of Merced County Farm Bureau directors at Hotel El Capitán. This territory embraces the counties of Kern on the south and Merced on the north, it was explained. Outlining the work done by the bureau, Polomares pointed to the record of labor supplied under mediation last year and the sources from which it was derived, showing that over 1000 laborers were sent into Merced county for cotton alone. Much of the labor is brought in from Oakland. The bureau also looks after legislation, and increases labor efficiency by improving camp conditions. It was estimated that the cotton planting will be 35 to 40 per cent larger than last year's, bringing the 1929 crop up to 200,000 acres. He asked the directors to continue the organization membership, at an expense of $100. The bureau is maintained by contributions from growers and from organizations as follows: Farm Bureaus and Chambers of Commerce, $100 each; dried fruits through packing houses, $5000; fresh fruits, $2000; cotton, $2000. The matter was taken under advisement by the directors.

President and Mrs. Coolidge may visit California and one or more of the Southwest States next summer, if they can make their plans as they desire. The President is anxious to fish and hunt in some of the western streams and game preserves and wants to see the western part of the country. He hopes now, after retiring to private life, that he will be able to visit with Mrs. Coolidge some of the most interesting places in California and the Southwest. If time and opportunity permit they may go as far as to take the trip by sea from Los Angeles to Honolulu and return.

Problems of the world war veterans, including hospitalization and rehabilitation of wounded and sick ex-service men, will be discussed by representatives of the American Legion from all parts of California at San Bernardino, March 17. State Adjutant James K. Flek of the Legion announces. The meeting will be that of the members of the Executive Committee of the Legion. The date of the coming state convention at San Diego will be decided upon as well as the route to Louisville, Kentucky, for the national convention in the fall during the meeting of the Legionnaires.

One-Legged Mountain Climber

Probably the world's greatest mountain climbing feat of 1928 was achieved by Clyde Cobb, middle-aged taxidermist of Kalispell, Mont., who, wearing an artificial leg, climbed Mt. Wilbur (9,283 feet) in the Rockies. This peak had been scaled by only three other men, all professional mountain climbers. Reaching the summit, where in 1923 Norman Clyde of the Sierra club of California erected a cairn of rocks, the Montana man bared his artificial leg and made a snapshot of himself standing beside the cairn as proof of his ascent.

POULTRY

RAISING POULTS DIFFICULT JOB

Sanitation Essential to Prevent Dread Blackhead.

That the new methods of raising turkeys are about to revolutionize the industry is indicated by the success adventurous turkey enthusiasts have experienced in many parts of the country during the last season.

Word has gradually spread around during the last two or three years that the dreaded disease of blackhead could best be controlled by raising the poults under conditions where the sanitation can be carefully controlled. This has given rise to experiments with incubator hatching and artificial brooding and to keeping the growing poults on restricted range, says a writer in the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman.

As the result of considerable experimenting, the new method has gradually taken the form of a rather definite program. Hatch the eggs in incubators; brood under artificial hovers; range on fresh, clean ground, and feed an all-mash starting and growing feed. This is a summary of the modern method now being tried with considerable success in many different places.

The writer has had the pleasure of being enabled to visit three turkey raisers in three different states who have been remarkably successful in raising turkeys by the method outlined above. These places were located in three different states—Michigan, Kentucky and Kansas, yet the methods followed were surprisingly similar and the results were uniformly satisfactory. The Michigan man has been using the same methods for two or three years and is specializing in turkey farming. He has a fine flock of more than 1,000 birds, and claims that his losses have been very low.

The Kentucky grower lives in the famous blue grass region not far from Lexington, and is a general farmer. He raises tobacco and other field crops, and in addition to the turkeys has a flock of more than 500 White Leghorn hens. It is worthy of note, however, that the turkeys and chickens are kept entirely separate.

There was nothing at all elaborate about his equipment houses with small portable brooders, and had home-made troughs for feed. He has about 250 turkeys left out of about 340 hatched. He claims that the losses were heavier than normal because the poults were chilled when he had some trouble with his brooder stoves.

The Kansas flock was found at the Kansas experiment station at Manhattan. This was an experimental flock, and the birds had been kept in close confinement without outdoor range, until they were sixteen weeks old. At that age they were transferred to a two or three-acre alfalfa field, and at the time of my visit, after four weeks on range, they were as fine and sturdy birds as could be wished for.

During their period of confinement, these poults were fed plenty of lawn clippings for green feed, but otherwise they had the same rations as growing chicks. This flock contained approximately 100 birds out of 135 that were started.

Sufficient Range for Success With Turkeys

A range of one acre of sod is considered sufficient for 100 turkeys from the age of eight weeks to marketable age. This area should also be divided into four sections and then each section used for only one month. The secret of successful turkey raising rests largely in providing fresh ground and the proper feeding of all feed. In the selection of range it should be one which has not been frequented by chickens and should not be situated where drainage from the poultry yards may result in infestation. It is, of course, desirable to have all the turkeys of the same age. There is no question but that turkeys can be successfully raised in confinement and that it does not pay to allow turkeys to range for their feed.

Separate Turkeys

Keep turkeys entirely away from chickens because the excrement from chickens may contain the worms which are believed to harbor the germ that causes blackhead, the most deadly enemy of the turkey family. There is always more or less trouble from lice and mites with hen-brooded poults. The best stock you can buy will pay the largest profits. Experiments over a long range have shown there is no money in scrub turkeys.

Material for Eggs

Feeding affects the texture of the egg shells. It usually is necessary to supply layers with materials from which they may make the shell for the eggs. Crushed oyster shell is kept in hoppers so the birds may eat it at will, as it contains a large percentage of lime. Grit also is kept in hoppers, as it helps in grinding up the feed in the gizzard. Some kinds of grit also contain a certain amount of lime that helps the birds in the manufacture of egg shells.

Green Feed Source

The great increase in the sale of head lettuce in many cities gives some poultrymen a new source of succulent green feed for their hens. The heads of lettuce often require quite a little trimming before they are placed on the counters. Sometimes bushels of the leaves can be obtained for the hens, and the growers are glad to get them out of the way. It often pays a poultryman to do his own trading with dealers who have such products for disposal.

DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES
 Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not habit forming.
 The Doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headache, and to break up fevers and colds. Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. That City Charter

CHANGING conditions necessitate changed arrangements for maintaining old institutions. Government, particularly town government has been a feature of Anglo Saxon organization practically from the infancy of the race. But while the same objects are sought by the most complicated forms of municipal organizations today as were then by the Tun Moot and meeting of the Witenage, yet conditions of today are so diverse from those of early times that the vehicle of government must be changed periodically in order that the same work may be accomplished.

In Redwood City particularly time has wrought changes, and the form of government adopted as most suitable thirty years ago, when this city was a small community of perhaps 1500 people, is today not adequate for the performance of government to the best interests of all.

It is generally conceded that Redwood City has outgrown its present form of government, a form of government devised particularly for cities of less than 3,000 population. As an alternative the people of this city have a new charter, if they so desire. A charter prepared as the result of the labors of fifteen citizens of Redwood City, aided by the best legal, business, administrative and executive talent available.

The proposed charter is in all probability not a perfect document. Such documents seldom are. But it is the best that a large group of the city's leading citizens can evolve; and its authors, knowing the impossibility of creating a perfect work of this kind, have made plentiful provision for its change as future details show themselves in need of adjustment.

The proposed charter, we believe, is the best solution possible at this time to the city's need in government. Every detail has been carefully considered, and expert advice sought on each of its provisions. It is to the best advantage of Redwood City that the proposed charter be adopted, and for this reason, we urge our readers to show an appreciation of the efforts of those who have worked to prepare this charter by giving it an affirmative vote on April 9.

Increasing Crime Through Carelessness

THIS seems to be the time of year when almost every day records the accidental shooting, wounding, maiming and sometimes the killing, of persons handling guns or other fire-arms, supposed to be empty. That old excuse, "I did not know it was loaded," should be no excuse from punishment for the parents who leave fire-arms within the reach of children.

What kind of a father (or mother) is it who will leave fire-arms where they can be found by children?

To the thoughtful man or woman it seems astonishing that any parent will also allow their children to have in their possession those two educators in cruelty—the air-gun and the rifle. That the air-gun and the rifle educates a boy in cruelty, is known and realized to the sorrow of many persons in neighborhoods where there are boys who own these weapons. Cats and dogs as well as birds have been made targets and victims of the boy's amusement. This is bad, but even worse is the well known fact that many injuries to children and to older persons have resulted from the careless use of such weapons, even to the loss of life.

Certainly some action ought to be taken against parents who allow children to handle these weapons. When the time comes when innocent living creatures are no longer shot for amusement, there will be fewer human lives sacrificed. There are many persons today who regret that they ever used an air-gun or rifle.

To kill for the sake of killing, to find pleasure in frightening, wounding or destroying any living creature cultivates brutality and an indifference to suffering which often leads to crime.

Accidents and crime will also be greatly diminished when there is a nation-wide restriction of the sale of fire-arms, as well as a heavy penalty for carrying weapons without official permission.

"To neglect crime at its source is a short-sighted policy, unworthy of a nation of our intelligence."

Good Roads a Community Asset

ALARM is expressed by many taxpayers when states and municipalities borrow money for new road construction.

An expenditure for good roads is different from many kinds of outlay. A costly public building is a good advertisement for a community, but it does not usually save any expense in running that city. Ordinarily it costs more because of all the work necessary to keep up that structure.

But when a state or a municipality builds a fine road, there is a direct saving of money to the citizens. It takes less gas to run their cars over that road, the tires do not wear out so fast, cars will stand up longer and with less repairs. Also a great deal of time is saved to every farmer, truckman or business man who uses that highway. These savings are something enormous and they will often wipe out the cost of a road in a relatively few years.

Letting any important road remain in poor condition imposes a heavy tax on the people dependent on the road and it is not good policy—West Point, Nebraska, Democrat.

Hoover, the Executive

THE inauguration address of President Hoover was much such a talk as we expected. It was plain common sense, with little of the flamboyant dressing of a political speech. It was such a talk as the executive of a great business concern might give to his employees and business associates.

Hoover's greatest point was respect for the law. This, too, we expected. A great business man knows that business and prosperity depend upon a just and equitable functioning of the law of the land, and that a disrespect for law, any law, is a tendency which tends to undermine the whole fabric of the nation.

The United States of America can well feel proud of its new president. He is a man of action, with determination and executive ability, and above all, he is respected and admired, not alone throughout the land which has honored him by placing him in the highest office within its power to confer, but throughout the world.

Protecting the Investing Public

PROBABLY few investors understand the care which the modern stock exchange examines securities before listing them, so that the purchaser may be assured as large a degree of safety as is possible.

Today, before accepting the listing of any security, all recognized stock exchanges require most exhaustive, certified information as to liabilities, dividends, earnings, amount of stock issued and numerous other details. After listing, similar reports are periodically required.

Consequently, it is a practical impossibility for a fraudulent stock to be listed on the large recognized exchanges. Prices increase and decrease, as is natural, but a listed security is, to the best of the beliefs of experts, sound.

The dramatic speculative side of the stock market is about all that the majority of persons pay attention to—whereas they should know more about the great institutions that form that market.

To those to whom merely the speculative lure has proven irresistible, it might be said, that they should at least, before plunging, consult brokerage houses that are members of and strictly regulated by these recognized exchanges, and get the protection that exchanges offer.

No man was ever meanly born—Calvin Coolidge.

AGRICULTURAL GRADING

Standardization of agricultural products, a development of very recent years, is doing much to aid in the profitable marketing of the farmer's goods.

The Department of Agriculture has established a comprehensive set of standards and grades which cover almost every farm product. Not only is this practical in local and national trade, but in international commerce as well.

The farmer, as a result, is benefited by an increased demand for graded products, and by the fact that grading determines which goods are to be stored for future sale and which immediately marketed.

To live in the presence of great truths and eternal laws, that is what keeps a man patient when the world ignores him, and calm and unspooled when the world praises him—Balzac.

The ideal to which we should strive is that there should be no child in America . . . that has not the encouragement to express in fullest measure the spirit within which is the final endowment of every human being—Herbert Hoover.

25 YEARS AGO

Times-Gazette, March 5, 1904
Mr. and Mrs. J. Ellis Ensor returned from an extended wedding tour through the southern states, and have commenced housekeeping in their new little home on the Robinson subdivision. Besides visiting New Orleans, Mr. Ensor's former home, the young people spent some time in northern Texas and Mexico.

W. L. Kline, who has for the past years conducted a photograph gallery here, left last week for San Francisco, where after a few weeks he will leave for Missouri, where his wife preceded him some months since. Mr. Kline made many friends in town who regret seeing him leave here. Mr. Fonda of San Francisco, a thorough photographer, has bought the place and is prepared to do the best work at reasonable prices.

Fred McNulty, the popular young blacksmith of Millbrae, and Miss Hilda Hartzell of the same place, were united in marriage last Saturday in San Francisco by a Congregational pastor of the metropolis. Mr. McNulty formerly lived in Redwood City, where he went thru the public schools. He is an energetic young business man and owns his own business. Mrs. McNulty is well-known around Millbrae, where she has made her home for many years. After a short wedding trip, they will return to Millbrae to start housekeeping.

'Wet' Measure Dies in Senate

SACRAMENTO, March 7—(CNB)—Faced by strong opposition of legislative "drys," this year's crop of anti-Volstead act proposals are treading a rocky road, it appears today.

Twice halted in the senate federal relations committee, the Canepa joint resolution memorializing Congress to modify federal laws to permit manufacture of light wines and beer shows no new signs of emerging from its somnolent rest there, despite efforts of the Los Angeles senator to get it out with a "do pass" stamp attached.

Canepa is proposing his memorial as "relating to relief of persons engaged in grape growing" and is citing the low price paid for juice grapes during the past year as a potent economic reason for his action.

'Aimee Case' Will Draw Full House

Seats at a Premium In Senate During Trial

SACRAMENTO, March 7—(CNB)—Fame, that fickle stage manager today had hooked taxes, farm relief and a myriad lesser lights from the legislative boards for a more sensational, more securely "front page" turn—the Aimee case and its less flamboyant stage setting—the impeachment of Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy of Los Angeles.

Despite the accusations against the debonair jurist, the rarity and gravity of impeachment proceedings, and the wide scope of charges which Assembly managers will press in the velvet-draped senate chambers, the flaming evangelist of Angelus Temple fame, Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson will be the star of the show. If you don't believe it, try, no matter what your political prestige, to get cards of admission!

The trial is set for March 18 and may last for days or weeks. The prosecution denies that it will summon the Four Square Gospel leader, but it is sure that Judge Hardy will, and seats long ago were at a "premium" because of desire of the curious to hear her on the witness stand.

Prosecuting the case will be Assemblyman Melvin Cronin and Wm Hornblower of San Francisco, H. F. Sewell of Whittier, Walter J. Little of Los Angeles and Clare Woolwine of the southern metropolis. Presiding will be Lieutenant-Governor H. L. Carnahan. Defending Judge Hardy, who stands accused of accepting $2500 from Mrs. McPherson for legal services and other indiscretions while serving on the bench, will be nobody knows.

The affidavit of Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the evangelist, recently estranged from her daughter, and diary statement of V. Kimball of Oakland, famous as the Mme. X of the Aimee disappearance and its embarrassing sidelights centering around a Carmel hut, will play important parts in the accusing of Judge Hardy, whose defense to date has been a steadfast denial that the $2500 check was aught else than a love offering.

A card party will be given next Monday evening at 8:30 by Redwood Circle No. 100 A. U. O. D. in the large hall of the Odd Fellows' building. Mrs. Grace Rodgers is chairman of the committee which is making preparations for the event.

Committee Named For School Week

The state wide committee that will have charge of the tenth annual celebration of public schools week, beginning April 22nd, was announced this week. The committee includes leaders in school work over the state and citizens whose interests are concerned with the development of the public school system.

Meeting was held during the week in public school auditoriums and in public halls with the participation of parent teacher associations, commercial and civic organizations and county and state officials. The week is intended to be of a community nature in which the entire public are given an annual review of the work and progress in the school systems.

Charles Albert Adams of San Francisco is again named chairman of the general state committee and Vaughan MacCaughy, secretary. The state committee is divided into Given, superintendent of schools, Oakland; Arthur H. Chamberlain, secretary, California Association for Education in Thrift and Conservation; Walter L. Bachrodt, superintendent of schools, San Jose; O. S. Hubbard, superintendent of schools, Fresno; George C. Jensen, principal, Senior High School, Sacramento; Wesley W. Kergan; Elias Ellison; and Will Crockett.

Henderson, superintendent of schools, San Diego; J. L. House, principal, Central Union High School, El Paso; Charles E. Tesch, city superintendent of schools, San Luis Obispo; W. W. FARM-WOMAN LABOR LAWS TAX SENATE

Many Measures For Protecting Farm Help Considered

SACRAMENTO, March 7—(CNB)—That sterling individual, the hired man, as well as his sisters, cousins and aunts, comprising the great army of California's fruit and vegetable harvesters are receiving unusual consideration in legislative councils today.

If the bills for protection of their rights as to wages, working conditions and hours of labor now pending action carry, the state soon will be compelled to issue a special labor law code applying to agricultural workers alone. And if even a few of them struggle through the gauntlet of ayes and nays, the farmer must turn book keeper, and even banker and lawyer to keep within the letter of the statutes.

The more dignified, conservative senate has been deluged with labor bills this session, most of them dealing with phases of agricultural work, while strangely enough, the assembly, natural fountainhead of such proposals has to date developed but a sparse crop. Temper of both houses as to labor proposals still is uncertain, with likelihood that a number of new laws affecting relations of farmer and his help will be enacted.

Senator Edgar S. Hurley of Oakland, for instance, would prohibit minors of school age, from working at any farm labor while schools are in session, a serious proposal for many districts where speedy handling of crops is essential. Further, Hurley would further insure pay of seasonal workers by stipulating that if not collectible at the main office of the employer, wages be paid at a place designated by the state labor commissioner.

Senator Roy Fellom of San Francisco, who like Hurley is not a farmer, would include a definition of "farm labor agency" in the employment agency act, and would insure return of fees to job-hunters when jobs secured through agencies do not materialize. Further, Fellom prohibits collection of fees from women or minors in excess of amounts which insure them proper living conditions, to be determined by industrial welfare agents, and such fees would no longer be collectible once women or minors had left the job in question.

Senator C. C. Baker of Salinas would authorize the director of industrial relations to make loans or advances to persons securing work through free employment agencies, and would insist that when negotiable paper is used for "paying off" that it be of a kind paid on demand and not merely "payable on demand." Further, he would include associations in the group authorized to settle with employees by such paper.

Strengthening the eight-hour day law for women, Senator J. C. Clarison of Modesto would exempt graduate nurses and certain others, such as cannery workers, from its prohibitory clauses, in contrast permit the industrial relations department at its discretion to suspend the women's eight-hour act in such industries as processing, drying or manufacturing perishable foods. Cronin would delete the clause making the act inapplicable when women are harvesting, canning or drying perishable foods in danger of spoiling.

From Santa Clara county come two labor proposals, one by Senator Sanborn Young to substitute the words "school enrollment certificate" in place of "certificate" in employment of minors statutes. Assemblyman T. M. Wright would amend the Deering "day of rest" act by making Sunday labor unlawful unless in an emergency or equivalent days off be allowed within the calendar month. Wright also would make

Roman Holiday at Hangings Scored

SACRAMENTO, March 7—(CNB)—Verbal fireworks are expected next week when members of the State Board of Prison Directors are hauled before the Assembly crime problems committee to answer charges of permitting "Roman holidays" at state prisons in connection with executions there.

Spurred by declaration of Assemblyman Charles H. Deuel of Chico that scenes in the death chamber are revolting because of records of women and hours of employment prima facie evidence for conviction of the eight-hour law. Quite gallantly, Assemblyman Fred C. Hawes of San Francisco suggests that no women be permitted to carry a receptacle weighing more than 10 pounds upstairs, and would make violations of the law refer specifically to employees, managers, superintendents, agents or officers of any business. The penalty clause of the law he would change from $50 per day violations are continued to read not more than $500. He would give the industrial relations department the power to enforce the law.

presence of a larger number of witnesses than necessary and that under the present system condemned persons are allowed too much publicity, the committee is expected to set March 15 for the hearing, members declared today.

Y. M. C. A. Teams Enter Californiad

The first event in the big "Californiad," which in reality is an affair similar to the Olympic games, but including boys activities as well as those for adults, will be started on March 11th. This event will be basketball. Teams representing the Y. M. C. A. in San Mateo county and Palo Alto were chosen and registered on Wednesday. Teams will be entered will be 80, 90, 100, 110, 120, 130, 145 and Unlimited.

Y. M. C. A.'s all over Northern California are making entries in this big event.

The many other events which will comprise the program of the "Californiad" will be published in the very near future. These events will bring out the intellectual, physical, devotional and service phases of the program of the Y. M. C. A. in all age groupings.

Road and Bridge Bills Prominent At Legislature

SACRAMENTO, March 7—(CNB)—Headed into the wind for a long reorganization tack, the ship of state today had its cargo of administration measures much in prominence, with general expectations being that the Legislature will adopt Governor Young's program of creating new departments of military and veterans affairs, business regulation, vocational licensing and criminology. The same program would give the department of public works control over motor vehicle licensing and collections.

These proposals seem certain of adoption, but there is more chance of a break over administration proposals to take from supervisors the right to franchise toll bridges, and to head off inclusion of more county roads in the state secondary system. The bridge bill, giving the state the right to condemn and buy private toll spans probably will but with franchising powers left with supervisors so far as bridges connecting county roads are concerned.

The road situation is not so clear. The south has the governor's promise for a survey, looking toward inclusion of more roads on a basis of three miles in the south to one in the north, recommendations to this effect being subject to legislative ratification, and no funds to apply to the new roads until 1931 at least. Some northerners are not altogether satisfied with this, and there are signs, also, that more than one southerner may attempt to hasten the program by demanding a vote on one of the 50 or more pending road measures.

The south has but 500 miles of secondary roads and the north more than 1200. Governor Young thinks this should be equalized, pointing out that secondary road funds are divided equally between north and south, and that with fixed amounts available, both sections have an unquestionable right to spread their financial butter thinner if they desire.

Susanville-Bieber road will be surveyed, preliminary to improvement.

Phone Procedure For Woodside Told

The establishment of a telephone exchange at Woodside has made possible the introduction of "Number Service" between Redwood City and Woodside, according to an announcement made yesterday by L. C. Brown, manager for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company here.

In explaining this service, Brown stated, "Number Service" will make it possible to make a telephone call between these two cities with the same ease that you make a local call. When you telephone from Redwood City to Woodside, just give the local operator the desired telephone number and hold the line as on a local call.

The establishment of a new exchange at Woodside has necessitated the assignment of a new telephone number to all customers there. Therefore, it would be advisable before calling anyone in Woodside to call the information operator and secure the new telephone number. The call should then be placed in the manner described."

ESSEX THE CHALLENGER Wins Mt. Diablo Stock Car Cup

An ESSEX The Challenger stock four-passenger roadster, in a race against time, won the trophy offered by the Oakland Post-Enquirer for the fastest time up Mt. Diablo.

The powerful, swift ESSEX climbed the tortuous, twisting eleven-mile trail in 23 minutes, 43 1-5 seconds, a remarkable demonstration of its perfect balance and sturdy construction.

An amateur driver—B. M. Sharpe—unfamiliar with the road, drove the ESSEX, Forest Predmore, automobile editor of the paper, riding with him as official timer.

Other cars have vainly tried to lower the cup time under the Post-Enquirer rules, which call for a strictly stock model carrying driver and timer.

On highway or hill, with ESSEX The Challenger, you can accept any challenge!

DOING THE DULL THING

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois

"How much easier it is," I heard a man say the other day, "to do a dull thing from choice than from necessity."

There is a misconception in the minds of youth that some day if one accomplishes the tasks set by teachers and parents and people in charge of things, there will come a time when one can do as he pleases, when everything that comes into the day's work will be interesting and pleasant and easy, or if there are tasks which do not have these characteristics, they may be sidetracked and shunted off for some one else to do.

The theory is quite false, and one might much better learn early in life to do the dull uninteresting thing and to learn to do it cheerfully from choice.

When I was teaching English composition one of the rules of the game was that no papers were to be in late without a penalty of reduction of grade. There were very few members of the class who did not at one time or another drop a late theme on my desk with apologies at times, of course, and explanations, but the task of writing something daily had grown dull, and so had been delayed and accomplished only at the last moment from necessity.

Stanley never had a late theme, so far as I recalled and I one day remarked to him something of his regularity and promptness.

"I don't like writing," he confessed, "and I don't find it easy. My brain seems to atrophy when I face the task of putting thoughts down on paper. For that reason I get at the work when I am freshest. I choose to do the dull thing first. If I did not, possibly I would never get it done, or at least I should do it with less enthusiasm and success if I pushed it into the last minute and did it hurriedly."

He had the right philosophy. Doing the dull thing from choice, he finally lost its dullness, for he became interested in writing, he took it up as a profession, and today he is making a

Men Safest Drivers

Washington.—The perennial family argument as to whether man or woman drivers get into more automobile accidents can at last be backed up with some facts and figures that indicate sex differences.

Records of man and woman taxi-cab drivers in a Pennsylvania city have been watched for an entire year by Dr. Morris Viteles and Helen M. Gardner of the University of Pennsylvania.

The results, reported in the Personnel Journal, show that the woman taxi drivers were responsible for three times as many accidents as men, though, judging by claims following accidents, the women were more successful in keeping out of serious trouble.

These men and women operated the same kind of car and all equipment was regularly overhauled. Both drove in stormy weather and in the same traffic conditions.

The men, however, were more experienced, on the whole, than the women, for some of the women were not experienced drivers when hired, but were given a thorough course of training and immediately placed on cabs. This would seem to be an important psychological factor, but the taxi-cab company records could not be kept in such detail as to show whether the new driver offsets inexperience with excessive caution or whether this caution oversteps the mark and leads to an excessive number of cases of collisions.

About 2,000 men drivers were on the employment rolls at a time and about forty women. The men drove 28,451,719 miles in the year and had 7,511 accidents. The women drove 348,979 miles and had 208 accidents.

In terms of revenue the women had three and one-half times as many accidents per thousand dollars as the men.

A special study of accident costs in one representative month showed that there were 191 claims in the accidents

Janet Is Popular

Here is the most popular young lady in Washington. Pretty Miss Janet Coon was recently voted by over 20,000 residents of the Capitol city to be its most popular maiden and receive, as a reward a trip to the movie wonderland of Hollywood, with all expenses paid by a local newspaper.

of man drivers and four claims in cases involving woman drivers. The claims indicate that women got into less serious mixups than the men, for the total cost of claims against men was $14,005, as compared with $75 against woman drivers.

The psychologists conclude that the figures from the study "favor the point of view that the present generation of woman drivers is more susceptible to accidents than the present generation of man drivers."

They also state: "The extent to which this is the result of relative inexperience in driving or of a sex-determined difference in susceptibility to accidents in traffic cannot be finally determined from an examination of the present data. The fact, however, that a sampling of women suffer more accidents when driving under the same conditions as a somewhat similar sampling of men is clearly established."

Lives Without Stomach

London.—A man can live and thrive without a stomach, provided that not too many of the pancreatic glands are cut away. This has been proved by an operation of removing the stomach and stitching the upper part of the small intestine to the gullet, performed in the Bartley hospital in Leeds and now reported in the British Medical Journal.

The man on whom the operation was carried out was in such a condition that the removal of the stomach gave him his only chance of life. The doctors decided to give him that chance, and cut away the stomach bit by bit until it was completely removed.

As some of the pancreatic glands could be saved, the patient was not without digestive juices and soon could take nourishment. After 24 hours he took some water, and the quantities were gradually increased. Then milk and tea were added and at the end of 10 days he could have as much food as he asked for. Solid food was taken at the end of a fortnight.

After a month the man was out of bed and eating ordinary food, though in small quantities and often. An X-ray examination after five months showed that the operation was entirely successful, and at present the patient appears to be in good health and able to do a reasonable amount of work. He enjoys his food. The operation is regarded as a surgical marvel.

Englishman Bequeaths Money to "Good People"

Tingewick, England.—Virtue realized a material reward in the will of Corbett Charles Barrett, a property owner of Buckinghamshire.

Mr. Barrett bequeathed to any old person or persons, inhabitants of Tingewick, "who have worked hard and lived good lives," his three cottages in Tingewick, a neighboring village.

These lives of good lives, says the unusual testament, preferably will be church-goers. The choice of those who will benefit by this legacy is left to the discretion of the rector and church wardens of Tingewick.

Microbes Do Not Die
Except from unnatural causes such as starvation, too much heat, etc., microbes and other one-cell creatures do not die. Instead, at a certain stage in their life they divide and two microbes result, each growing to normal size. These two follow the same process and so they continue to multiply.

Little Journeys in Americana

By LESTER B. COLBY

Fate of Cynthia Anne Parker

Folk nearly a hundred years now the tale of the kidnapping of Cynthia Anne Parker has been a favorite story around the firesides of Texas. Cynthia Anne's parents, with a small group of friends and relatives, settled in 1833 on the Navasota river, not far from the present town of Groesbeck.

One bright May morning in 1838 a war party made up of fierce Comanches, cousins of the Navajos, swept down upon them and murdered them all. That is, all except Cynthia Anne, who was twelve, a younger brother, and two or three who escaped. The two children were carried off.

For many years after that rumors seeped into the settlements, telling of a white girl who rode swiftly with the Comanches. She was blue-eyed. Traders, occasionally in contact with the nomadic plain's tribes, now and again set eyes upon her. Once a party met her face to face but she remained dumb in their presence.

They tried to tell her of her relatives, but though she listened, they could not get her to answer them. Finally she grew up and became the wife of Peta Nocona. Nocona, in the passing of years, was elected chief. She bore him children.

Once, after she was married a group of white men who visited the Comanche camp, asked her if she would not like to return to her people. Pointing to Peta Nocona she said, "He is my husband. I love him." And pointing to three naked little red-skinned children, she added: "And those are my babies. I love them, too. No, no. My place is here."

Comanches were restless, fierce, swift-moving savages. They were better at home on horseback than anywhere else in the world. They could not resist the joy of making forays on those ranches which were the outposts of civilization. Thievery, especially horse stealing, was an honorable business among them.

So it happened that a command of soldiers under S. L. Ross, later governor of Texas, surprised Peta Nocona's band one day in 1860. Ross himself, in individual combat with Nocona, broke the chief's right arm with a pistol bullet. Ross described the death of Nocona, thirty years afterward, as follows:

"I then shot the chief twice through the body. He walked deliberately to a small tree nearby, the only one in sight and, leaning against it with one arm about it for support, began to sing a weird, wild song—the death song of the savage."

"I called upon him to surrender but he refused, with contempt, and tried to run me through with his lance which he held in his left hand. I could only look upon him with admiration. He had no chance for escape. His hand was utterly destroyed and his wife and child captured within his sight."

"Yet he was undaunted and preferred death to life. I directed my Mexican servant to end his misery with a charge of buckshot."

Cynthia Anne was brought to civilization and turned over to her uncle, Col. Isaac Parker, living near Weatherford in Parker county, named for the family. The rest of Cynthia Anne's story is touching.

Good and Bad Luck

That Cuckoo Brings

A wealth of folklore and superstition has been wound around the cuckoo all down the ages. In the Maritime highlands and Hebrides if the cuckoo is first heard by one who has not broken his fast some misfortune is expected. Indeed, it is considered a reproach to one to have heard the cuckoo while hungry.

In France, to hear the cuckoo for the first time during the year is to make the bearer an idle do-nothing for the rest of the year. There is a similar belief in Somersetshire. In Northumberland one is told, if walking on a hard road when the cuckoo first calls, that the ensuing season will be full of calamity; to be on soft ground is a lucky omen.

The cuckoo is one of the shyest of birds. He is not a frequenter of thick bushes, like the warbler tribe, but takes boldly to the trees; and yet he is but seldom seen. His loud call is an incident of courtship. The hen birds are supposed to hear many singers before they choose a mate. But though the male cuckoos are seldom seen, the hens are even more rarely met with; they have not the betraying call, and are less often in the open. Their time, not filled up with nest-building, is occupied in searching for eligible nests of other birds. An instinct induces them to make this choice from those of birds whose food would nourish the young cuckoo.—Montreal Family Herald.

Phrases About Salt
In the languages of many eastern peoples, we find some very curious phrases about salt which are intelligible only to those who understand still more curious customs to which they refer. Thus, to "eat the salt of the palace," a common expression in ancient monarchies, is an allusion to the old practice of partaking of the salt of a superior as a sign of allegiance to him. So in Persia the natives speak of a disloyal person as being "untrue to salt." Among the Arabs, again, it is customary when making a transaction or striking up a friendship for the parties to lick a piece of salt; hence their familiar phrase, "there is salt between us."

This Little Girl Got Well Quick

"Just after her third birthday, my little daughter, Connie, had a serious attack of intestinal flu," says Mrs. H. W. Turnage, 217 Cadwalder St., San Antonio, Texas. "It left her very weak and pale. Her bowels wouldn't act right, she had no appetite and nothing agreed with her."

"Our physician told us to give her some California Fig Syrup. It made her pick up right away, and now she is as robust and happy as any child in our neighborhood. I give California Fig Syrup full credit for her wonderful condition. It is a great thing for children."

Children like the rich, fruity taste of California Fig Syrup, and you can give it to them as often as they need it, because it is purely vegetable. For over 50 years leading physicians have recommended it, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows it gives satisfaction. Nothing compares with it as a gentle but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It regulates the stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

There are many imitations of California Fig Syrup, so look for the name "California" on the carton to be sure you get the genuine.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

Not Exactly Lost, but—

I HAVE always been interested in the character of Daniel Boone. It seemed to me that of all our native Indian fighters and explorers he, perhaps, was the most gallant and the most admirable, and certainly the most typical.

A few months ago a collector of early Kentucky lore told me a story of the great Pathfinder. I leaped upon it with cries of joy. I said to myself that if he were not true, I nevertheless deserved to be true. So far as my informant knew, it had never been printed, but instead he thought had been handed down by word of mouth from one generation to another. So I was making ready to leap into the arena with a brand new contribution to pioneer Americana when I sustained a severe shock.

This shock was the discovery that the same anecdote, in substantially the same form in which I heard it told by my Kentucky friend, already had appeared in print. Indeed it was published a trifling matter of 102 years ago. Even so, I offer it here again for the reason that I believe it has a touch of unconscious humor entitling it to revival and perpetuation. It appears that in 1819 Chester Harding, an artist, being prompted by a patriotic impulse, made the long journey from his home on the eastern seaboard to Missouri, which then was in the Far West, for the purpose of meeting the aged Boone and painting his portrait. At the time of Harding's arrival Boone had left his home and gone on one of his perilous outings into the wilderness. The visitor followed along a obscure trail until he came to a tumble-down log shack.

To quote Harding's words: "I found him engaged in cooking his dinner. He was lying in his bunk near the fire and had a long strip of venison wound around his ramrod, and was busy turning it before a brisk blaze and using pepper and salt to season his meat."

"At once told him the object of my visit. I found that he hardly knew what I meant. I explained the matter to him and he agreed to sit. He was nearly ninety years old and rather infirm; his memory of passing events was much impaired yet he would amuse me every day by his anecdotes of his earlier life. I asked him one day, just after his description of one of his long hunts, if he never got lost, having no compass. He said he, 'I can't say as ever I was lost, but I was bewildered once for three days.'"

A Personal Interpretation

YEARS ago, when I was a reporter for a New York evening paper and covered trials at the criminal courts building, there was an elderly and very devout Irishman, called "Mac" for short, who had a job in the court general sessions. It was his duty to keep order and to act as doorkeeper on occasion, and sometimes to serve as a sort of usher. But he particularly shone on those occasions when he was called upon to aid in taking the so-called "pedigree" of a newly-convicted defendant.

In this matter a certain routine invariably was followed. The prisoners would be arraigned at the bar. Mac would station himself alongside and in an undertone put to him certain questions, and then call out the answers to the clerk, sitting fifteen feet away, who duly would record them on the back of the indictment. This ceremony was more or less automatic, since from long experience the old man knew exactly what facts regarding the prisoner's past life he must ascertain. As the convicted man usually made his responses in a low tone, only the functionary's booming voice would be heard as he chanted his own version of the disclosures just made to him.

One day a youth of most forbidding appearance, who had been found guilty of attempted highway robbery, was brought up. Mac ranged up to him and in a friendly, confidential half-whisper asked him for his right name.

"Henry Smith," returned the youth. In a surly, grumble, out of one corner of his mouth.

"He says 'Henry Smith,' Mr. Clerk," called out Mac. He turned again to the malefactor.

"Born in the United States?"

"Sure, Brooklyn."

"Native-born, Mr. Clerk."

"Any religious instruction in your youth, young man?"

"No," shortly.

"Protestant, Mr. Clerk."

Good Luck Has Followed Infielder Mike Gazella

Good college baseball players cannot be blamed for taking a whirl at the professional game when one considers the luck which has followed Mike Gazella, utility infielder, recently released by the Yankees to the Newark club of the International league.

Gazella was a Lafayette college six or seven years ago. He probably was a better performer on the gridiron than on the diamond, for he was given all-American nominations by several critics.

When he was graduated in 1923 he was signed by the Yankees and then his good luck began. Gazella sat on the bench nearly all of that season, getting into the game once in a while when some infielder was injured. The Yankees won the pennant and Gazella was voted part of a share of the world series money. He appealed to Judge Landis and the latter upheld Gazella in his claim that he should receive a full share. This was about $60,000.

Twice after that Gazella was sent to the minors for seasoning and both seasons the Yankees failed to win the pennant. He was with New York in three other pennant years, warming the bench most of the time, but collecting a full world series share each time the Yankees won. It is estimated that his four years with the Yankees have netted him something like $44,000.

Jockey Earl Sande May Return to Riding Again

Earl Sande, once America's greatest jockey, may attempt a comeback this year. Reports from Maryland say that Sande is training strenuously in an effort to cut down the weight that forced him to announce his retirement last summer. According to these reports, Sande will ride in the Cofferth hatched possibility for Clifford A. Cochran, provided his battle against weight is successful.

Unable to endure the daily torture of making weight, Sande quit the saddle at the close of the fall meeting at Belmont last season. He trained his own small stable and campaigned with more or less success at Aqueduct, Jamaica, Pimlico and Bowie. However, he had no more than announced his retirement and begun his work as trainer than he began to lose weight. He dropped ten pounds in short order and now believes that he can return to the saddle without much difficulty.

Catcher Bassler Makes New Record at Hollywood

Two new fielding marks have been added to the Pacific Coast league records, according to the official figures for the 1928 season.

Johnny Bassler, Hollywood catcher, formerly of the Detroit Tigers, with only four errors in 127 games, finished the season with a 994 fielding average, a new league mark for catchers. Bassler handled 491 putouts and 125 assists, a total of 616 accepted chances.

Gordon Slade of the Missions set up a new high fielding mark for shortstops. He played in 170 contests and made only 24 errors for a fielding mark of .970. Slade had 444 putouts and 637 assists, a total of 1,081 chances. He handled on an average of six fielding chances in every contest.

Draft Foes Headless

The death of Jack Dunn leaves the anti-draft party, which still survives in the minor leagues, without a good leader. Dunn could have been called a leader were it not for the fact that when balked he would withdraw from the councils of his associates and walk off in high dudgeon. It was his theory that players belonged to the club that brought forth their skill, and should not be subject to the greed of a club in a higher organization. He fought hard for this point.

War Department Has Eye to 1932 Olympic Games

The War department has started preparations to enter the Olympic games for 1932. Secretary of War Davis designating Maj. Gen. Herbert R. Crosby, chief of cavalry, as department representative in all matters bearing on army participation in the games to be held in this country, probably at Los Angeles.

The army developed for the 1928 games in Holland an equestrian and modern pentathlon team and it is expected it will be allotted the same for 1932, the latter consisting of running, swimming, shooting pistol or revolver, broad sword fencing and riding, and is essentially military in nature.

The experience gained last year showed lack of competitive experience in comparison to that of European competitors which handicapped both teams. For this reason, the department desires early preparation for the coming games. Major General Crosby will soon start formation of a nucleus for each team, selection, and final training of its members.

METZLER FINALLY LANDS WITH SOX

Player Who Set Record for Touring U. S. Anchored.

When Alex Metzler joined the Chicago White Sox last spring he decided that this time he would stick to the major leagues.

Metzler had done enough travelling. He was tired of being shunted around the minor league tows.

His home is in Fresno, Calif., and Topeka offered him a contract in 1924. Metzler did not wait for transportation; he hopped a freight train and beat his way from Fresno to Kansas City.

He reported as an infielder but Topeka immediately shifted him to the outfield. He did not stay long. Topeka farmed him out to Coffeyville.

Coffeyville gave up the ghost and Metzler found himself a free agent with exactly eight dollars in his pockets.

He signed with Paris, Texas. Paris later sold him to Wichita Falls.

Metzler started the 1925 season with Wichita Falls, but they farmed him out to Ardmore and Ardmore had him for a few weeks when Wichita Falls recalled Metzler and shipped him to the Chicago Nationals. He played nine games with the Cubs and was sent back to Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls did not need him so Metzler was loaned to Shreveport for one game. Wichita Falls recalled him, kept him ten days and then loaned him to Dallas for five weeks. At the end of five weeks Wichita Falls recalled him again.

Metzler went so well for Wichita Falls in 1926 that the Athletics bought him. He looked like a time prospect, but when Philadelphia signed Ty Cobb and Zack Wheat the Athletics had so many outfielders that Cornelius McGillicuddy had to cut down and so he sent Metzler back to the Wichita Falls club.

He did not stay long in Wichita Falls. Chicago Americans, needing an outfielder to replace the injured Johnny Mostil, wired for Metzler and he has been with Chicago White Sox ever since.

Big Ed Morris in Queer Predicament in Sleeper

One of the southern papers tells a story about Big Ed Morris, the Boston Red Sox pitching star, when he reported to the Chattanooga club as a green rookie who didn't even know about trains. When the time approached for the first road trip Morris confided in one of his teammates that he was horrified at the thoughts of spending nights on any railroad train.

"I can't sleep in those seats," he said. "You have to draw up in a knot and your arm gets so twisted you can't pitch for days."

His friend explained to him about sleeping cars. He told him they had all the comforts of a hotel room and that he would sleep as he did at home. He seemed relieved.

When the train pulled into the station most of the players tossed their bags into the pullman and charged into the dining car. Morris, however, was more interested in the sleeping car.

He looked all around the car and asked the porter if he was in the ball club's sleeping car. When he was assured that the ball players were going to sleep in the car he rushed out to the diner and surged at his supposed friend.

"You told to me, eh?" he shouted. "I wouldn't get on this train if you hadn't lied to me. You did lie. Don't tell me you didn't lie. I been all through that sleeping car and there ain't a d—n bed in it."

Southworth Homesick

Billy Southworth's appointment as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals came as a surprise to those who remember him during his days with the New York Giants in 1924-25-26. He came to the Giants with Joe Deschager in a trade that sent Bill Janningsham, Dave Bancroft and Casey Stengel to the Boston Braves. Southworth was "homesick" during the two and one half seasons he played under McGraw and never came up to expectations and was finally let go.

State Funds For Schools Allotted

By LAWRENCE MONFORT

SACRAMENTO, March 6—(CNB)—Carrying $8,667,846.71 to round out administration of California's public schools for the year ending June 30, the state department of education's semi-annual appropriation budget was announced today, completing distribution of $25,434,880 for elementary, high school and junior college uses. High schools are receiving at this time $4,835,336 and elementary schools $3,732,310 in addition to respective awards of $1,152,881 and $1,549,252 made September 10 last year for their respective uses. At that time, also, the total yearly apportionment to junior colleges, $465,100 was made.

Based on an average daily attendance of 8890, San Mateo County at this time will receive $52,220 which is in addition to $265,500 apportioned last fall, making the county's total for the current year $358,720 for elementary schools.

Reaching a new high for yearly distribution of high school funds, the state also announced award of $65,232.50 to San Mateo county high schools at this time, which with the $23,060 so apportioned last fall brings the county's total for 1928-29 to $88,292.50.

This apportionment includes $17,120.50 for Sequoia Union High School, with an average daily attendance of 706, making its total for the year $21,120.50.

Mrs. Otis M. Carrington, who has been under treatment at the Mills Memorial hospital in San Mateo, was able to return home this week, and is reported to be much improved in health.

The Bank and How to Use It

It may sound a bit fantastic to say that you can step into your bank, buy a ticket for a trip to London, Pernambuco or any other point, arrange all of your business, property or personal affairs so that you need not have a care as to how they will be handled while you are traveling, and then be on your way within a few hours or at most a few days. Every seasoned traveler knows how long it takes under ordinary circumstances to arrange trip details alone, particularly if he is going any distance. Add to this the details of transferring the administration of his material affairs to capable hands and it is easy to see that the preliminaries of any considerable journey might be drawn out over weeks and perhaps months when the traveler is going "on his own."

The bank's travel department, particularly if it be the Bank of Italy, has contracted the whole business of travel arrangements and their related trip protection to the compass of a mere conference or two. In this period it is possible for the customer to buy all tickets—railroad, pullman, steamer, airplane or motor, obtain letters of credit and travelers cheques, make hotel reservations, arrange for the care of his dependents and his property and the safe deposit of his valuables, and obtain all information on passports and visas. This service can even go so far as to help him while away his idle hours by reserving theatre tickets at any point on his itinerary. It is interesting to note that all of the service described here is as easy to obtain as it is to open a savings account. It is more interesting still to note that this service is without any extra charge whatsoever. There are no fees to be paid by the traveler or prospective traveler to the Travel Department.

The reader might ask: "Why should a bank establish a Travel Department?" A fair question and easily answered. Travel entails many things that a bank is vitally interested in. The issuing and circulating of letters of credit and travelers cheques, contacts with correspondents and other banks at home and abroad through honoring of such drafts, the working up of contacts of value to the International Banking and the Foreign and Domestic Exchange Departments, the interest of the Trust Department in caring for the affairs of the traveler while he is away and possibly thereafter, the care of valuables in safe deposit—all may be termed as direct banking business. In addition the Travel Department creates a vast fund of good will for the bank by concentrating all of the travel details, thus saving the client the necessity of going from one agency or transportation system to another. The creation of new business for the transportation companies and hotels also aids the bank.

It is easy to understand that the complexities involving a journey of any great distance, particularly the care of affairs at home while the traveler is away, and the many details that bewilder and even discourage the uninitiated in contemplating an unfamiliar trip, have acted to curtail travel. It is interesting to know that through the bank which maintains an up-to-date travel department, all of these negative factors can be swept away. Every detail of every trip, whether it be to Tibet or merely to the next state, can be arranged by the travel department, from the moment the traveler decides on the journey until he returns.

Any branch of the Bank of Italy's great system can provide this service, either directly or through the bank's nearest travel office. The experts in charge are themselves widely traveled. They know their field, which is the world, and the knowledge that they have gained and the service that they can give can be had for the asking.

is interested in securing the same privilege for a number of its county-supported lateral projects. A special group also is preparing to shove the West Side highway, serving a section of the San Joaquin now traversed by a state road, into the breach if the south succeeds in getting its pet project through either house.

Governor Young had a thought to state off immediate extension of the state system by a survey to be made by the Department of Public Works of concrete roads which sooner or later must be taken into the state network, the results of which would be available by the 1931 session. As an alternative Senator J. L. Wagy has a bill before the legislature by which county and state would share the cost of bringing to state standards roads furnishing shortcuts or otherwise materially aiding state highway traffic. Conferences with Governor Young, Director of Public Works, B. B. Meek and others in authority over road matters are of almost hourly occurrence, and today, as the last half of the session is actively under way no coordinated plan of compromise has been reached. Road bills pending, each calling for addition to the state systems include:

Marshall Monument to Mother Lode Highway, 1 mile San Joaquin river near Antioch to Alameda Fresno to Morro Beach, 105 miles; county via Tunnel road, 42 miles; Sonoma to Mariposa, 34 miles; Lincoln to Newcastle, 10 miles; Malin to Susanville, 134 miles; Tisdale Bypass causeway, 1 mile; San Bernardino county to San Bernardino, 53 miles; California American Canyon to Carleton, 10 miles; Calaveras to West, 64 miles; Ma to Grant Park, 37 miles; Pass highway, 22 miles; San Joaquin to Saratoga, 18 miles; Creek to Fresno, 44 miles; Douglas City to Fresno, 44 miles; San Diego to Tijuana, 7 miles; San Bernardino county to Los Angeles, 58 miles; San Bernardino county to Newport Beach, 61 miles; Newport Beach, 61 miles; San Joaquin to Ventura, 34 miles; Maria, 168 miles; Bakerfield to jave, 65 miles.

Road Measures Flooding State At Legislature

By LAWRENCE MONFORT

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—(CNB) Combat over the extension of the state's secondary road system today assumed proportions of a major legislative engagement.

With a strong bloc of Southern California members openly defiant of Governor Young's anti-state system enlargement mandate, administration leaders admitted openly they expect battle, and voiced fear that the southern defection from "program" may become so general as to bring into the highway system every county road, both north and south, proposed for that purpose this session.

If the Edwards-Kline bill, proposing inclusion as secondary highways of 615 miles of southern county roads passes, leaders say, there is prospect that more than 1800 miles of roads may be added to the state system, with a resultant thinner spreading of funds to cover improvements during the next two decades.

The southland, which has the support of a number of senators and assemblymen for the Edwards-Kline measure argues that it now has but 625 miles of secondary highways, as compared with 1771 in Northern counties that it has considerably more than half of the state's automobile registration, and pays 57 per cent. of the gas tax from which road-building funds are derived. Further, the southerners say, nearly two-thirds of all state roads are north of the Tehachapi.

Reported last week as opposing the south's road bill, Senator Frank F. Merriam of Long Beach today, still appeared to be the key to success or defeat of the Edwards-Kline measure. Merriam has not as yet publicly announced any agreement with other members from the Los Angeles metropolitan district which would swing him into line for the bill, opposed, he declared because Pomona constituents were against it.

In the meantime, Northern California and especially San Joaquin Valley legislators are watching the southern situation with interest. If the south is to secure inclusion of its major county roads in the state system, they declare, San Joaquin Compare Delivered Prices!

IN buying your new car, we have this suggestion to offer: Find out both the factory (f. o. b.) price and the delivered price of each car under consideration. See how much difference between the two prices, and ask why.

You will discover this: That Nash "400" delivered prices are closer to the factory prices than competitive cars. Because Nash cars are factory equipped with hydraulic shock absorbers, bumpers, tire lock—every necessary accessory.

All these are bought in tremendous volume, and all are included in the factory price, instead of being added as "extras" at retail figures, by the dealer.

Some dealers (not Nash dealers) add as much as $50 or $60 for bumpers alone. Buy a "400," and get more for your money!
